Dragging Layout Items into Content Area

All available layout elements can be dragged into the content area by clicking and dragging from the asterisk (*) sign on the top left corner of the element. These items are only draggable through this sign. When item is dragged, its opacity is changed and its proposed drop place is highlighted with yellow color in the content area. Once element has been dropped, it will be placed in the content area and restored in the above column list.

2

Content Area

This content area will be used to design the layouts and add content items. Mentioned below is the sample layout created through this widget. In the following layout, there are four rows and corresponding columns showing the width ratio. "1" means full width column and "6/12" means half width column. Columns can be nested into each other's and so are the components.
